Bishop Foys erects Our Lady of Lourdes as personal, quasi-parish

Laura Keener
Editor

By order of decree, June 24, 2016, and after consultation, Sept. 14, 2015, with the Presbyteral Council, Bishop Roger Foys has erected the personal, quasi-parish of Our Lady of Lourdes, Park Hills, for liturgical celebrations of the extraordinary form of the Roman rite. The extraordinary form of the Roman rite is the Roman liturgy used prior to the reforms of 1970; most notably the Mass is celebrated in Latin. The quasi-parish will celebrate its first Mass at 8 a.m., July 16, at Our Lady of Lourdes Quasi-parish located at 1101 Amsterdam Road.

In the decree Bishop Foys notes that for several years now the extraordinary form of the Roman rite has been celebrated at various churches in the diocese and that the number of Christian faithful attached to the extraordinary form of the Roman rite has continued to increase.

In his 2007 apostolic letter "Summorum Pontificum," which addresses the use of the extraordinary form of the Roman rite, Pope Benedict XVI has instructed that a bishop "should he judge it opportune, may erect a personal parish ... for celebrations according to the older form of the Roman rite." (Art. 10)

In his decree Bishop Foys notes that "the Christian faithful who assist at the liturgy celebrated according to the Extraordinary Form of the Roman rite throughout the Diocese of Covington have requested a more stable canonical structure for their community in order to guarantee its continued vitality and rightful place within the life of the Church."

"Therefore, in order to provide for the good of souls," the personal, quasi-parish of Our Lady of Lourdes is being erected.

Father Michael Barth, judicial vicar for the Diocese of Covington, said that the Code of Canon Law defines a quasi-parish as functioning as a parish but that the patrimony or community have not yet reached a level of stability. A personal parish, he said, serves a particular group and its members are not defined by geography — in the case of Our Lady of Lourdes that group is the faithful who are attached to the extraordinary form of the Roman rite. In addition to Mass, all sacraments and ritual celebrations (for example, weddings and funerals) celebrated at Our Lady of Lourdes will use the rites prior to 1962.

Pope Benedict, in "Summorum Pontificum," explains that the ordinary and extraordinary forms of the Roman Missal are both not only valid but also are two usages of one Roman rite. "The Roman Missal promulgated by Pope Paul VI is the ordinary expression of the lex orandi (rule of prayer) of the Catholic Church of the Latin rite. The Roman Missal promulgated by St. Pius V and revised by Blessed John XXIII is nonetheless to be considered an extraordinary expression of the same lex orandi of the Church and duly honored for its venerable and ancient usage. These two expressions of the Church's lex orandi will in no way lead to a division in the Church's lex credenda (rule of faith); for they are two usages of the one Roman rite." (Art. 1)

To be clear, Our Lady of Lourdes Quasi-parish is in full communion with the Catholic Church and is under the jurisdiction of the Bishop of Covington.

Bishop Foys has appointed Missionaries of St. John the Baptist Fathers Shannon Collins and Sean Kopczynski, parochial administrator and parochial vicar, of the quasi-parish, respectively.

The Missionaries of St. John the Baptist is a recently created private association. Father Collins and Father Kopczynski, currently the only two members of the association, are former members of the Fathers of Mercy, Kentucky. The association, as well as the Fathers of Mercy, claim Father Jean Baptist Rauzan as its founder and are an order of preachers who primarily conduct parish missions and retreats.

Five years ago, both Father Collins and Father Kopczynski desired to promote the extraordinary form of the Roman rite and of sacramental rituals and were encouraged by their religious superiors to seek a benevolent bishop that would support their mission and ministry.

"Bishop Foys opened the door and we took him up on his invitation. He was very kind in letting us come in," said Father Kopczynski in an interview June 24 at Our Lady of Lourdes Quasi-parish.

The church building at 1101 Amsterdam Rd., Park Hills, (above) originally the Zion Evangelical Lutheran Church, has been designated the home of Our Lady of Lourdes quasi-parish. By order of decree, June 24, Bishop Roger Foys erected the personal parish for liturgical celebrations of the extraordinary form of the Roman rite.

Crews were busy painting and renovating the former "Faith Church" building, a non-denominational faith community. The first Mass for Our Lady of Lourdes Quasi-parish will be held in the church undercroft while substantial renovations to the sanctuary and rear of the church are completed. Father Collins and Father Kopczynski have acquired a pipe organ and many statues, Stations of the Cross, and other sacramentals necessary to transform the original Lutheran church building into a proper Catholic church building.

The $250,000 renovation project will include a 20-foot outdoor grotto, similar to the grotto in Lourdes. Currently private donations from members and friends total $122,000 — almost 50 percent of the funds needed for the renovation.

"We would like to have this be more or less shrine-like," said Father Kopczynski. "We are going to have a grotto where you can light candles, day or night, where you can pray — a cave of refuge to pray and find renewed hope."

Father Kopczynski said that about 50 people regularly attend Mass that has been celebrated very early Sunday mornings at St. Bernard Church, Dayton. Once the community is settled at Our Lady of Lourdes Quasi-parish he expects the number will increase and that two weekend Masses may be offered. He is looking forward to offering the faithful attached to the extraordinary form of the Roman rite a place to call "home."

"People need a home where they can find rest ... People are longing to call a place home," he said.
